A Message from Our CEO

For nearly 50 years, National Able Network has created pathways to employment, economic mobility, and opportunity. As workforce needs evolve, we remain committed to advancing innovative solutions that strengthen individuals, organizations, and communities.

Today, I am pleased to share an exciting milestone in that work.

National Able Network is expanding its workforce consulting and capacity-building capabilities through the addition of an accomplished team of technical, research, and development experts currently operating as SJI Consulting and Research.

This investment builds upon our longstanding commitment to workforce innovation and strengthens our ability to support employers, community organizations, educational institutions, and public sector partners. It also enhances the work of our National Back Office Cooperative subsidiary, expanding the expertise and resources available to mission-driven organizations across the country.

Most importantly, this opportunity positions National Able Network to deepen its impact. By bringing together talented professionals with a shared commitment to workforce excellence, we are creating new opportunities to help individuals access living-wage careers, strengthen organizational capacity, and advance economic mobility in the communities we serve.

As we look to the future, we remain focused on what matters most: creating opportunities that change lives and building workforce solutions that help people, organizations, and communities thrive.

Thank you for your continued partnership and support.

In Service With You,

Matt Weis
President & CEO
